The Best Blueberry Muffins You Can Make In The Air Fryer

If you have never made muffins in the air fryer, they are easy. You only need the right pan, and they are as simple as making them in a regular oven.

What is the difference between an air fryer and a convection oven?

An air fryer and a convection oven are different and should not be swapped. An air fryer uses hot air to circulate all around the food. You will find that the air fryer cooks faster than a convection oven. It also provides a bit different texture than a convection oven.

How long to cook muffins in an air fryer?

You will want to start checking your muffins around the 10-minute mark. They will cook anywhere from 10-14 minutes. You will know when your muffins are done by sticking a toothpick in the center of the muffins, and they come out clean from the wet batter. Sometimes you might poke a blueberry, giving you a blue tinge, which is okay.
